Crowd protests transfer; principal's status uncertain

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A packed crowd applauded several of its own members who told the school board Thursday that the district shouldn't transfer former River City High School principal Mort Geivett. But – although Geivett had already been transferred by Washington Unified School District's superintendent – the school board "pulled" an agenda item calling on them to approve the change.

Yesterday, Superintendent Patrick Campbell told the News-Ledger that Geivett remained on "interim" duty at the alternative education school based at Yolo High.

"There's supposed to be a hearing, and the results of the hearing will determine what happens after that," said Campbell about Geivett's status.

If Geivett does not return to River City, the school will experience full turnover of its principal and vice principals this summer.

A number of speakers told the school board not to remove Geivett. And their arguments alluded to mischief in the district including alleged financial improprieties at the school, and implications of an improper personal relationship between a district administrator and Washington Unified's attorney.

Parent Marianne Estes asked the board to keep Geivett at River City. She said she was a graduate of local schools, but because of recent "chaos" in the district, had opted to school her own son elsewhere until this year.

"This year, I decided to put my son into River City because I got to know the principal, and he is a man of integrity," said Estes. "I am really disappointed. Obviously, there are some issues I don't know and don't care to get into. I hope you will rescind the action taken against the River City principal.

Monica Jones – the wife of school board member Kevin Jones, but who made it clear she was speaking as a parent, asked the board "How are our children expected to learn when they are left in limbo?"

Resident Dani Langford reported, "We have raised over 150 signatures (supporting Geivett) and this is not even all the people who wanted to sign the petition."

Board president David Farmer told the members of the public that the school board would not be acting on the item at the meeting. He gave little information – as is common for a "personnel" item.

Attempts to reach Farmer and Geivett yesterday weren't successful.

Three races in one

About 150 people showed up last weekend for the first annual West Sacramento International Triathlon, which featured a 3/4-mile swim followed by a 16-mile bike ride and a four-mile run.

The event kicked off with a swim at the Port of Sacramento, and used local roads for the running and bicycling.

ACLU to fight gang injunction

The American Civil Liberties Union announced Thursday that it had filed a motion asking Yolo County Superior Court to nullify a gang injunction targeting alleged members of a West Sacramento gang. The injunction was issued in February under the sponsorship of the city's police department and the Yolo County District Attorney's office.

Among other restrictions, the injunction imposes a 10 p.m. curfew for those it names in conjunction with the Broderick Boys gang – said to be based in northern West Sacramento – and prevents them from associating in public with other gang members.

The civil liberties group said the District Attorney's office only served one person (an out-of-town person) with notice of the injunction before the injunction went before a Yolo judge. This deprived those 350 people named in the injunction of a chance to contest the injunction, said the ACLU.

"The stealth process adopted by the District Attorney resulted in the constitutional rights of hundreds of people, and their families, being taken away without any opportunity for their day in court," said ACLU regional legal director Alan Schlosser in a press release. "As a result, the court only heard one side of the story. Due process requires more."

The news release included a quote from West Sacramento's Jason Swearengin:

"The police didn't have any trouble finding me in order to serve me with the injunction on February 9, after it had already been issued," said Swearengin. "They could have found me just as easily before the injunction was issued so that I could have had a chance to defend myself. It seems like I was tried and convicted – all without me having a chance to defend myself."

"Friends and family members can no longer go to family barbecues or attend each others' children's birthday parties," activist Martha Garcia was quoted. "They can't go to the movies together, they can't attend night school because classes get out after the curfew. This injunction harms the quality of life in our community."

'The police . . . could have found me just as easily before the injunction was issued so that I could have had a chance to defend myself.'
JASON SWEARINGEN

Region saw a 26% drop in crime: 'a positive sign of improving safety in the neighborhood.'
POLICE CHIEF DRUMMOND

Meanwhile, Police Chief Dan Drummond and Deputy District Attorney Reisig met with members of the public Saturday morning at city hall to talk about the injunction. The meeting was moderated by Gabriel Vivas of "La Raza Network."

City spokesman Art Schroeder reported that the meeting was designed to allay misunderstandings.

The injunction applies within a 3.5-mile urban "safety zone," said Schroeder, reaching from Harbor Boulevard to the river in the north and west, and south to the freeway. He quoted Police Chief Drummond as saying the zone is based on "where the crimes are occurring" and "where the victims are located." And it doesn't apply to people attending school, church or family events.

Schroeder also reported that a comparison of the five months that followed the injunction with the same five months last year showed a 26 percent drop in crime – a drop from 76 to 56 crimes reported.

"It's only a measurement of the first five months of the injunction," said Drummond, "but it's a positive sign of improving safety in the neighborhood."

Schroeder suggested that anyone previously "validated" as a local gang member can contact the local police department to ask for a review of their alleged gang status.

Sacramentans will give up port -- for a price

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

The devil is in the details.

There is a consensus among leaders from West Sacramento, Yolo County and the city and county of Sacramento that control of the Port of Sacramento should be handed over to West Sacramento and Yolo, reports port commission chairman Mike McGowan.

But while agreeing on the concept, the two sides of the river haven't come to an agreement about how much the city and county of Sacramento should be "compensated" for their voters' historic financial support of the shipping institution.

"It seems to come down to the question of whether the city of Sacramento and County of Sacramento deserve to be paid to get out of the port business," McGowan told the News-Ledger after the port commission's discussion Monday evening. "There is a willingness to turn the port over, and shrink the port district to the City of West Sacramento and (eastern) Yolo County."

But McGowan – who is a West Sacramento resident and representative of Yolo on the port's governing board – does not yet see eye to eye with his fellow boardmembers from across the river.

"They want to be reimbursed for the investment they made when the port was still being built," he added.

The staffs of the local governments on each side of the river have not been able to come to an agreement on how that reimbursement might take place – although McGowan said he is hopeful something can be negotiated for the port commission to vote on at a scheduled August 15 meeting.

MIKE McGOWAN

Sacramento's city council and county supervisors are willing to step away from the Port of Sacramento, but want compensation from Yolo and West Sacramento

"We don't want to pay (Sacramento city and county) so much that the port is crippled," he added.

The publicly-owned facility continues to lose money, and McGowan feels that changing the governance will pave the way for local officials to make another key decision: whether to hire an outside operator, such as the Port of Oakland, to operate the Port of Sacramento and try to stem the financial bleeding.

"We anticipate that when the dust clears, this will be a port district with about five members on the commission, and a majority of them will be appointed by the City of West Sacramento, and a minimum of two or one appointed by the Yolo Board of Supervisors."

Then, said McGowan, the port can choose whether to allow applicants such as Marine Terminals Corporation (now in charge of the Port of Sacramento's stevedoring), the Farmers Rice Cooperative or the Port of Sacramento to take over management duties, responsible to the governing board.

The Port of Oakland has discussed using the Port of Sacramento as a kind of relay station for cargo heading to the Bay from inland – replacing some of the truck traffic currently on the freeways.

Homeless man dies

A Yolo County Coroner's spokesman said the cause of death was still undetermined but there was "no sign of foul play" involved in the demise of an apparently homeless man found dead in West Sacramento on July 16.

The victim was 53-year old James Dennis McGuinness, found dead near a business's dumpster at 3015 West Capitol Avenue.

"He had apparently been sleeping and had covered himself with boxes," said the spokesperson.

Toxicology test results are awaited.

Early deadline

There will be an early deadline at the News-Ledger this week. Because the newspaper will print on an early schedule, deadline for all items to be considered for the August 10 edition will be this Friday, Aug. 5, at 5p.m.

Normally, the News-Ledger can accept classified ads and some other items through Monday for inclusion in the Wednesday newspaper.

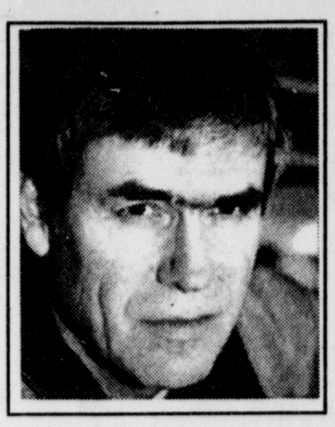
That will not be the case for our August 10 edition.

A guest column -- all the way from Germany

Note: One of the nicest things about this new age of computers is that it's very easy to have pen pals from all over the world. Not only can you learn all about other people and cultures by just sending off an email now and then, but you can also get a much better understanding of how some of our distant neighbors feel about the U.S.A. in general and Americans in particular.

With that in mind, I recently asked some of my international pen pals what they thought about the war in Iraq, and the first to respond was Karin Veth, who lives in a beautiful little mountain village in Germany with her husband and two daughters. Since Karin has always enjoyed writing, I told her to just go ahead and take over my column for a week, and the following is what she sent me:

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

KARIN and ROLAND VETH, with daughters CHRISTINA and LAURA.

First, I want to introduce myself and tell you a little about me and my country. My name is Karin, and I am from Germany. I am married to Roland, who is a carpenter. We have two daughters, Christina, 14 years, and Laura, 12 years. Bavaria has seven parts, and I am from the northern one, the Franconian part. It is famous for its mountains, huge forests, and wellness places, which are very popular over here. Men use them to keep their health, and women use them to keep their beauty.

The place where I live is called Bad Kissingen. People come here for vacations, but also to recover after a heart or bone operation. They usually stay for three weeks in a rehabilitation center, or in a private house.

I work in Bad Kissingen as a shop assistant, selling men's clothes. After I received training for two years for this job, I went to England for one year to improve my English and also to get to know foreign people and their cultures. I got a job as an Au pair in London and also went to school there. Being in London was a great experience for me and I met lots of nice and interesting people, and looking back now, I can say that year gave me a much better understanding about people from other countries. There were many different people from all countries and when we meet people with a different skin color or religion, and get to know them better, then we understand them better and racism does not have a chance, and the world is a better place.

Bad Kissingen is also a place where many Americans live. A few years ago there was a military base here and also a housing area. After the Berlin Wall fell most of the soldiers moved to a new base in Schweinfurt, but 300 families are still living here. But it won't be long before they, too, have to leave to go to the eastern countries in Europe.

Since I can remember, we Germans have had a long and very good friendship with America. We will never forget what your country did for us in World War Two and after it. My father came from Silecia, which is in eastern Germany, and he and other families, including babies, barely escaped from the Russian Army at the end of the war. Nobody wanted to fall into their hands, so they escaped only with what they could carry in their hands to Bavaria or Saxony where the Americans were. They walked for one month more than 200 miles through snow and icy wind and very low temperatures to avoid being raped and murdered by the Russian Army. All knew that they had to get to the place where the Americans and Western Allies were.

America came to liberate our country, and when I was young, we felt safe when we saw American soldiers in the streets. We met them at fun fairs and during Christmas many soldiers took the opportunity to spend this peaceful time of the year in the home of a German family. Many of them are still in touch with "their" families. My best friend is married to an American soldier and is very happy with him and their two sons.

Unfortunately, under the leadership of President Bush, Germany's relationship with America is not like it was before. We didn't want to go to war with Iraq, and we still see no sense of it. We have been through two terrible wars in the last century. We saw all the pain, what it costs, losing husbands, sons and brothers. It was our opinion not to go to Iraq for war, and we wanted President Bush to listen to us, but he didn't. In an equal friendship, the opinion of both partners matter, but apparently this is not the case with President Bush.

Many Germans think that the world has become much more dangerous since the war started in Iraq. Lots of terror groups are everywhere now, especially in Iraq, where there were none before, and it seems like nobody can control them. The world was told there would be mass destruction weapons found in Iraq. And nobody found them. Now it seems like all Arabs want to have war with us and this raises fear with many Germans.

The recent bombings in London have been a big blow to me. It was in London where I worked so hard to learn how to speak and write English and I have many fond memories of the time I spent there. I also traveled on some of the same trains where the bombs went off and I feel very sad for the innocent people who lost their lives. It is just one more reason why almost all Germans and most Europeans wish the war would have never happened.

I know many Americans think we Germans should have gone into Iraq, too. But sometimes friends must disagree. It doesn't mean the German people don't love American folk anymore, and Americans are, and always will be, welcome in Germany.

SPORTS INSIDER

By Richard Novoa

The NFL football season has finally arrived with opening of the 49ers' and Raiders' camps last Friday. The Niners are working hard to improve their public relations by opening up their training camps to the public and offering free tickets to practice sessions. Fans can go online at www.49ers.com to get free passes to the Niners workouts.

The Oakland Raiders,, on the other hand are working out behind close doors in the hills of Napa. Al Davis likes closed sessions to keep the players focused. I guess he doesn't care about selling out his home games. The Silver and Black only sold out two games last season so be prepared another year of television blackouts.

Both team are preparing for the 2005 campaign and their early preseason clash on August 12th in San Francisco. Now this battle of the bay is already sold-out!

Major League Baseball

The Giants and A's both play in the Western Division of their respective leagues but these two clubs are headed in different directions. The A's are moving up by playing excellent baseball while the G-men continue to head south in a very weak division. The Giants current record is 45 wins and 59 losses but they only trail the first place Diamondbacks by 5 games. No Bonds sighting yet!

The Giants have to win the West to play in the post season but the A's are in control of their destiny as they close in on the Angels for the division title and lead the wild card race over the Yankees by 1 game.

Both teams beat the July 31st trading deadline to support there drives to the division title. The A's on driving a new pick-up while the Giants are jump-starting the model T. The G-Men traded catcher Yorvit Torrealba and pitcher Jesse Foppert to Seattle for outfielder Randy Winn.

The Mariners dumped Winn and his $3.75 million contract with an option for 2006 on San Francisco and called up catcher Yamid Haad from Fresno. Haad played in West Sacramento a few weeks ago in the PCL All-Star game. This was good news for Torrealba who will now get his chance to start.

Oakland acquired Jay Payton and relievers Jay Witasick and Joe Kennedy for Eric Byrnes to make their move on the first place Angels. Payton has hit 5 home runs and knock in 14 runs since coming to the A's and the two pitchers are a solid addition to the bullpen. Also, ex-River Cats outfielder Eric Byrnes was traded for the second time in 30 days. The Rockies shipped Byrnes to Baltimore were he should get to play every game.

Kings Korner

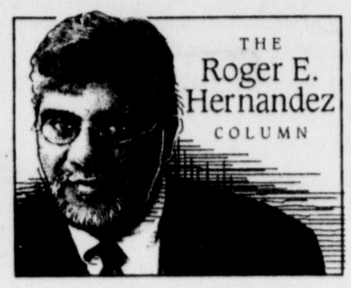
The NBA trades are now official. As of Tuesday, the owners and players signed the new agreement. Kings picked up 6-foot-3 guard Jason Hart from Charlotte to back up Mike Bibby and to pick up the slack by the departure of Bobby Jackson. Hart started 27 games for the Bobcats averaging about 10 points a game.

The NBA is very close to awarding the City of Las Vegas the 2007 NBA All-Star game. Houston will host the game in 2005/06. The Kings owners have been lobbying commissioner Sterns for a couple of years to award the game to Las Vegas. The Maloof's promised Sterns "what happens in Vegas, stays in Vegas".

Enjoy your day! See ya next week!

Dolphins are champions

The West Sacramento Dolphins swim team won its fourth Nor Cal Swim League Mother Lode Division championship in a row on Sunday. The Dolphins defeated Parkway, North Highlands, Carmichael, Manor Recreation and Rio Vista in competition in Davis.



Global Baseball — a Good Start?

Will American fans ever care about sports in the world beyond?

The national soccer team is in the midst of the Gold Cup, the championship for North and Central America. It's big news south of the border, and even Canadian newspapers are giving it more coverage than newspapers here, even though all the games are in U.S. cities. Here, only immigrants and the handful of American soccer fanatics have any interest.

And it's not just because soccer is not an American sport. The average fan doesn't care about basketball either — when it's of the international variety.

In the Athens Olympics last year, Team USA ended up with a bronze medal after losing to Argentina in semifinals. No team was supposed to be even remotely competitive after NBA stars began playing in 1992, so the loss to Argentina should have been a big deal. Yet it was accompanied by a long national yawn.

Will the same happen with baseball?

Major League Baseball and the Major League Baseball Players Association jointly announced plans for a World Baseball Classic next March, with the world's greatest players competing for their national teams for the first time ever.

Finally, a true World Series.

But the U.S. is not going to have it easy. One sign that baseball is going global is last month's All-Star Game, where 24 players on American League and National League rosters were foreign-born. That includes eight starters: one Puerto Rican, one Venezuelan and six Dominicans.

A Dominican national team, in particular, will be hard to beat. There are weaknesses at catcher and center field, but with Albert Pujols at first base, Alfonso Soriano at second, Aramis Ramirez at third, Miguel Tejada at shortstop, Manny Ramirez in left field, Vladimir Guerrero in right, David Ortiz as DH and a pitching staff led by Pedro Martinez and Bartolo Colon, they are competitive with any lineup the U.S. can put up.

The event signals a chance for American fans to develop a more global view of sports. Fans in many other countries already live in a much larger sports universe — it comes naturally for soccer fans in Brazil, for instance, to keep up with soccer teams in Italy, or for baseball fans in Latin America and Japan to follow baseball in the U.S. In contrast, how many American baseball fans know who won the Japanese baseball league last season?

Maybe internationalizing Americans' sports is a start in internationalizing Americans. And that is just about mandatory in a rapidly globalizing world. Economics, politics and culture are all coming together in unexpected ways, from computer help-desk phones being answered in Bangalore to Toyota factories being built in Tijuana, to Dominicans filling Major League Baseball All-Star rosters.

And to terrorists blowing up things in New York, Madrid and London. Understanding your foreign friends is as important these days as understanding your foreign enemies.

PARA EL PROYECTO DE REURBANIZACIÓN NO. 1 DE WEST SACRAMENTO

La Agencia de Reurbanización de West Sacramento (Agencia) está considerando enmendar su Plan de Reurbanización. Las enmiendas que se considerarán son 1) aumentar el monto total del incremento del impuesto que puede recibir la Agencia; 2) aumentar la capacidad de bonos de la agencia; 3) reestablecer la autoridad de la agencia para utilizar el dominio eminente en el Área del Proyecto. La Enmienda propuesta no modificará los límites del Área del Proyecto ni cambiará ningún otro límite de tiempo existente determinado en el Plan Actual.

Según la ley del Estado y a fin de obtener el aporte de la comunidad en el proceso de la enmienda, se formará un Comité de Área de Proyecto (PAC). El PAC es un grupo formado por propietarios residenciales ocupantes, inquilinos residenciales y propietarios de negocios electos del Área del Proyecto. Los propietarios residenciales ocupantes, inquilinos residenciales y propietarios de negocios dentro del Área del Proyecto votarán a los miembros del PAC en una elección comunal. El PAC también incluirá organizaciones actuales del Área del Proyecto designadas por el Ayuntamiento. El PAC revisará y hará recomendaciones sobre la Enmienda propuesta y puede aconsejar a la Agencia sobre asuntos relacionados con la política que afecta a los residentes del Área del Proyecto.

Certificación del Concejo para la elección del PAC. En esta reunión el Concejo de la Ciudad certificará que la elección del PAC se llevó a cabo según los procedimientos aprobados. Los nombramientos por parte del Concejo de las organizaciones comunitarias actuales que formarán parte del PAC también se realizarán en esta fecha. Community Workshops on the City of West Sacramento's Bicycle, Pedestrian, and Trail Network

The City of West Sacramento is beginning the process of updating the Pedestrian and Bicycle Master Plan. The new Bicycle, Pedestrian, and Trail Master Plan will identify ways to enhance and expand the existing network of pedestrian and bike travelways and recreational trails, connect gaps in the system, and improve problem areas. The two workshops will include: 1) a presentation on the goals of the Master Plan and preliminary findings; 2) provide an opportunity for residents and stakeholders to ask questions and provide comments on pedestrian, bicycling, equestrian, and other non-motorized transport issues and opportunities in West Sacramento.

Come share your ideas for creating a more bicycle-, pedestrian-, and horse-friendly community at one of two community meetings on recreation, transportation, business and neighborhood connectivity:

- Discuss what parts of the existing pedestrian and bicycle commute and recreation network are working, what parts are not working, and what is missing
- Suggest improvements to existing streets, intersections, paths and trails - such as bike parking, signage or lane markings, benches, drinking fountains, staging areas - that would encourage you and your neighbors to ride and walk more
- Rate the "walkability", "bikeability", effectiveness, attractiveness, and safety of other non-motorized transport and recreation options in your neighborhood
- Discuss what the city can do to encourage more employers to provide amenities such as secure bike parking, lockers, showers, and commuter passes to assist bike and pedestrian commuters
- Tell us how to make West Sacramento a safer place for you and your children to walk, ride or skate to work, to school, for health, and for recreation

Workshop #1: Riding and Walking for Transportation
Wednesday, August 10, 2005, from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.
City Hall Galleria, 1110 West Capitol Avenue, West Sacramento

Workshop #2: Riding and Walking for Recreation
Thursday, August 11, 2005, from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.
City Hall Galleria, 1110 West Capitol Avenue, West Sacramento

Both workshops will include similar presentations on the planning process. While participants will be encouraged to provide input on issues and concerns related to the workshop title, discussion and suggestions will not be limited to transportation or recreation at either meeting. Please attend the session that fits your schedule!

В ОТНОШЕНИИ ПРОЕКТА РЕКОНСТРУКЦИИ ГОРОДА WEST SACRAMENTO №1

Комитет района застройки будет рассматривать предлагаемые поправки и выносить по ним рекомендации, а также может консультировать Агентство по вопросам политики, которые затрагивают жильцов Района застройки.

- Утверждение результатов выборов в Комитет района застройки Советом. На этом заседании Городской совет утвердит результаты выборов в Комитет района застройки в соответствии с установленным порядком. OPINION

Letters to the Editor

In support of Geivett

I am writing regarding the July 28th school board meeting. Community members were tipped that board members were cutting their vacations short in order to prevent any action on the issue of River City High School Principal Geivett's transfer. It would appear that the information had validity since as soon as the meeting was called to order the president of the board informed the public that the item dealing with the transfer was being pulled from the agenda.

Even though the meeting room was at capacity with Mr. Geivett's supporters and many community members spoke on his behalf, their concerns fell on deaf ears. The day after the meeting several of Mr. Geivett's supporters received phone calls alerting them that the district's legal counsel was issuing threats and that bullying tactics would be employed. This has made community members more resolved not only in their support of Mr. Geivett's quest for due process but to continue questioning the actions of the administration.

Kudos to board member Westin who at this point seems to be the only board member who has not misled the public. The most powerful tool community members have is their vote. When the time comes again, use your vote to show your displeasure.

Sad

Last Thursday I went to the school board meeting to find out what was happening in the district and for some entertainment. I left with a bit of sadness and more since I have had a chance to think about it.

The reputations of five people have been dragged through the mud, the superintendent, the assistant superintendent of personnel, the principal of River City High School, the athletic director of River City High School, and the bookkeeper of River City High School. A reputation once damaged is tough to repair, especially since at least some of these people have done nothing wrong.

The school board in trying to resolve this issue look like deer in the headlights. They are not sure of which way to go. Their ultimate responsibility is to the parents and the students, not the administration, staff, or a school. Having a dispute go public with animosity on all sides does not help. Showing indecision does not help. And being distracted from the bigger issues does not help.

My sadness stems from the damaged reputations of the innocent, whomever they may be. It comes from the damaged reputation to the district. And it comes from the fact that a future necessary bond issue, the one needed to finish the new high school, will have that much a tougher time passing.

I went in seeking information, I left still not knowing much and with sadness in my heart.

Development concerns

Throughout history, many of the humans who are driven by the desire to lead have not learned from the mistakes made in history. Instead they have dismissed the hard lessons as "the past", stating that their ideas mean progress, the way of the future -- we must be open to change. If one doesn't like the changes an era forces upon a community, one is classified as old fashioned, not progressive, a stick in the mud, etc.

As far as I can see, West Sacramento's city leaders, with a few exceptions, follow the latter philosophy. Instead of promoting innovative plans to use our local natural gifts, like wind generated electricity and solar power and some of the most fertile soil in California to grow specialty crops, our public servants are coursing toward the dollars signs of development -- to pave paradise and put up inadequate parking lots -- like every other area that surrounds the city of Sacramento we residents say we don't want to be like.

We country lovers are being poured unmercifully into molds that organizations such as SACOG tout as upscale, progressive, modern high density, smart growth. Well, I put it to you, that in certain rocky, hard-soiled areas or places already developed as cities, higher density is fine, but developing Southport into such a mess is a crime against us all.

What our city leaders are learning from history is how to promote their agenda with rehearsed, robotic rhetoric they think we will believe. We hear the exact phrases over and over from the city manager, through the council and the commissioners and the engineers and the planners and other assorted staff. Maybe they all excelled in the same college courses: How to Distort Facts for Taxpayers 101; Politics, Perfecting the Lie 202; Advanced Manipulation of Existing Framework Plans 666; Earn More on the Side by Courting Big Bucks 711; Foolproof Techniques to Silence the Rabble-Rousers 828; Cover Your Hind End 909 (aka Lie with the Best of Them and Become President Someday); and Go for the Gold -- Developer Gold That Is 1,000,000+.

We were told that there are five additional developer plans still coming to the planning commission and city council and that even though they are required to start studies and the plans are all laid out (at a lot of expense to the builders), they don't have to accept them all and they might not accept them all -- watch for the catch words, and don't close your eyes or hold your breath. SACOG already has a study that shows Southport so far depleted of agricultural land by the year 2050 it might as well not exist. It feels like they're racing to speed that date up; as our city manager assured a Southport resident that there will indeed be some 5+ acre parcels left out there, and a certain West Sacramento Land Company realtor assures Burrows Road home buyers that there are no real plans for the 64+ acres purchased by Stroud right up to their property lines, even when these residents know their neighbors have already physically seen plans on paper. They don't even seem to care if lies are exposed because there's nothing we can do about it, they've got the system down. It's just business folks; dirty business!

I personally couldn't stomach hearing the positive proclamation for Stroud's stripping of the buffer zone at the city council meeting. It was obvious what would happen by the smugness of the other side. But when they try to come across Jefferson Boulevard into agricultural land, we'll be there!

Supporting Reisig

I have been a proud member of the Yolo County District Attorney's Office for over 16 years. One of the best aspects of working for this office has been the supportive non-intrusive leadership of Dave Henderson and the non-competitive family-like working environment. As deputy district attorneys we work for convictions to validate our victims suffering, make defendants accountable and protect the community by enforcing the law. Our work comes with the stress of working with uncooperative victims and witnesses, dealing with defense attorneys, and then entrusting our cases to judges and juries for final decisions. A cooperative and calm environment within the district attorney's office is essential for us to effectively prosecute our significant caseloads.

This office is not a partisan operation. We evaluate cases within the context of existing laws and seek out just resolutions. In Jeff Reisig we will get a district attorney who works hard and successfully to do the right thing for the community, who is not distracted by politics, and who will provide the strong steady leadership that permits us to do our jobs for you. Jeff's prosecution track record is as impressive as his lack of need to seek out the limelight for his victories. He is approachable and accessible.

Jeff Reisig is right for Yolo County and I urge your consideration and concurrence.

Council Certification of PAC Election.
FOR THE WEST SACRAMENTO REDEVELOPMENT PROJECT NO. 1

The West Sacramento Redevelopment Agency (Agency) is considering amending its Redevelopment Plan. The amendments being considered include 1) increasing the total amount of tax increment the Agency can receive; 2) increasing the Agency's bonding capacity; and 3) re-establishing the Agency authority to use eminent domain in the Project Area. The proposed Amendment will not change the boundaries of the Project Area or modify any other existing time limits outlined in the Existing Plan.

As required by State law, and in order to provide community input into the amendment process, a Project Area Committee (PAC) will be formed. The PAC is a group of elected residential owner occupants, elected residential tenants, and elected business owners from the Project Area. The elected members of the PAC will be voted in by existing residential owner occupants, residential tenants, and business owners from within the Project Area at a community election. The PAC will also include Council appointed existing community organizations from the Project Area. The PAC will review and make recommendations on the proposed Amendment and may advise the Agency on policy matters that affect the residents of the Project Area.

Council Certification of PAC Election. At this meeting the City Council will certify that the PAC election occurred according to adopted procedures. Council appointments of existing community organizations to the PAC will also be made on this date. The public hearing will be held on Wednesday, August 17, 2005, at the hour of 7:30 P.M., or as soon thereafter as the matter can be heard, in the City Council Chambers located at City Hall, 1110 West Capital Avenue, West Sacramento.

Any questions relative to the above matters may be directed to Shanna Wasserman, Redevelopment Analyst at (916) 617-4535. As information becomes available, please refer to the City's web page at www.ci.west-sacramento.ca.us for additional information on the PAC formation process.

If you care to pursue this further, try contacting her through Industry Entertainment, 955 Carillo Drive, Los Angeles, CA 90048. ... Meanwhile, think about it this way. Isn't it wonderful that babies who might have had miserable lives will be living in a home full of luxury and love.

And speaking of babies, Angelina's ex, Billy Bob Thornton, just had a baby via his recent marriage, and I'm told he's ecstatic over the little one.

THE CHOPPING BLOCK

by Philomena Corradeno

WHO COULD FORGET BLUEBERRIES?

We don't eat those little purply-blue balls because they're packed with health-enhancing antioxidants. No, we eat blueberries because they're packed with flavor, are low in calories and are easy to use and eat — no peeling, no slicing. And, you'd never get the little ones to eat them if you said "they're good for you." Kids like them because it's fun to pick them up one by one and pop into the mouth. What more can we say?

Here is one more nutrition bit. Research has found that blueberries "may support brain health and prevent memory loss."

It's the peak season, so you might want to put summer in the freezer for later pleasure. Be sure the berries are dry, to prevent sticking together in freezing, and pack them in airtight rigid containers or freezer bags. When ready to use, give them a rinse.

Though blueberries are a perfect breakfast fruit, we're lifting them a bit, making them part of an elegant main-dish salad. They're tossed with shrimp, walnuts, edamame or green peas, and salad greens, and then dressed with a lemon vinaigrette.

We can't talk about blueberries without thinking dessert. Here's an easy one made with angel cake (store-bought or home-baked).

BLUEBERRY-SHRIMP SALAD WITH LEMON VINAIGRETTE

- 3/4 pound (about 20) medium-size shrimp, boiled or grilled
- 1 cup fresh blueberries
- 1/2 cup toasted walnut pieces
- 1/2 cup edamame or green peas, cooked
- 5 ounces (about 4 cups) mixed salad greens

Lemon Vinaigrette*

- 2 Ounces (about 1/2 cup) firm white cheese, such as feta, crumbled

In large salad bowl, toss shrimp, blueberries, walnut pieces, edamame (or peas) and salad greens. Evenly divide salad onto six plates; drizzle with Lemon Vinaigrette (recipe follows). Sprinkle cheese around edges of salad. Makes 4 portions.

Lemon Vinaigrette:* In small mixing bowl, whisk 1/4 cup vegetable oil, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1/2 teaspoon sugar, 1/8 teaspoon salt and 1/8 teaspoon pepper.

BLUEBERRIES ON ANGEL CAKE

- 1 (14.5-ounce) angel food cake
- 1/2 cup fruit jam or jelly (any flavor)
- 1 tablespoon orange juice or water
- 2 cups fresh blueberries
- 3/4 cup heavy (whipping) cream, whipped until stiff, or 1 1/2 cups low-fat whipped topping

Split cake horizontally in half, preferably using a serrated knife. Place bottom layer on a cake plate. In a medium-size microwaveable bowl, combine jam and juice. Microwave on high until melted, about 45 seconds; stir until smooth. Fold in blueberries. Spread 1 cup whipped cream over bottom lay of cake; spoon about 2/3 of blueberry mixture over whipped cream. Cover with top cake layer. Spread with remaining cream and blueberry mixture. Garnish with fresh berries and mint leaves, if desired. Serve immediately or cover and refrigerate for up to 2 hours. Makes 8 portions.

CRITIC'S CORNER

By D.N.A Smith

"Charlie and the Chocolate Factory"

Running Time: 115 minutes
MPAA rating: PG

"It's a Wonderful Life," "The Wizard of Oz," "Gone With the Wind." These are just a few classic family films that should never be remade (or heaven forbid, "reimagined"). We should add to that list 1971's "Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory," starring Gene Wilder.

Unfortunately, Hollywood doesn't know when to leave well enough alone and hired Tim Burton to inflict his tired, Goth Kiddy aesthetic upon a beloved children's classic. "Charlie and the Chocolate Factory" is a waste of your time and money. This production adds nothing better to the original—and in fact handles most of the material WORSE than the original.

Gone are the fun, memorable songs we grew up loving. Instead of cute Oompa Lumpas doopity do-ing catchy ditties that teach a lesson, we get Danny Elfman vomiting out horrendous songs with lyrics you can barely understand.

Johnny Depp's performance is disturbing. Don't get me wrong: I love The Depp. There hasn't been a film I've seen of his where I didn't think he was spectacular. But his choice to portray Willy Wonka as one-half emotionally stunted man-child and one-half potential child molester (think Mr. Rogers on crack combined with Michael Jackson) is wrong for this film. Gene Wilder portrayed Wonka as an eccentric genius on the cusp of madness who quoted Shakespeare and Oscar Wilde. You could imagine Wilder's Wonka designing and building that factory. With Depp's Wonka, you're left wondering how the guy finds his way to the bathroom in the morning.

Johnny Depp

The perfomances by the child actors are all well-done, especially Freddie Highmore's, who plays Charlie Bucket. It was also nice to see Christopher Lee onscreen again, no matter how briefly.

Sadly, one cameo and a handful of talented kids aren't enough to save this disaster.

Books

Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince
by J.K. Rowling
Scholastic Books, $30
Reviewed by David Smith

With "Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince" as the next-to-last installment of the Harry Potter series, J.K. Rowling has a tall order to fill. She needs to tie together everything that's come before in the past five books, and set the stage for the final showdown between Harry Potter and the evil wizard Voldemort.

I wish I could say that Rowling fills the order handily and gives us the best book in the series. Sadly, she doesn't.

"Half-Blood Prince," while not a bad book, is probably one of the more uneven of the series.

The book begins by setting a tone of impending doom and dread, detailing how the calamitous events of "Order of the Phoenix" have affected the Muggle (non-magical) world; and there is a secret pact between two major characters that doesn't bode well for Potter or Hogwarts.

But then the book takes an unexpected turn in tone and downshifts for 350 pages while Harry Potter plays Encyclopedia Brown and tries to solve a pretty mundane mystery involving his school nemesis, Draco Malfoy.

And instead of upping the tension level—the Wizarding World is, after all, at War—Rowling chooses to focus the theme of "Half-Blood Prince" on Love and its various manifestations, which is ironic, since I found myself emotionally disconnected from the story—a first for me and a Harry Potter book.

Finally, about 150 pages from the end, Big Stuff happens and the book regains the same tension it began with. Sadly, it's too little, too late; and the much-ballyhooed Major Death is handled in a very cliched manner, unbefitting the stature of the character.

"Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince" isn't the worst book in the series, but at this point, what with all the time and emotion we fans have invested in the story, we deserved better than a mediocre plot and a poorly handled loss of a major character.

I honestly hope the final book in series gives us the payoff we deserve.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS

The Sacramento River registered 3 feet 6 inches at the United States gauge at the Southern Pacific bridge yesterday. No appreciable raise in the river gauge was made by the rain of last Wednesday, although half an inch fell to relieve the stress of draught that has been deeply worrying the farmers of the Sacramento Valley.

A great deal of alfalfa has been cut in the West Sacramento district during the past week and that which was still on the ground was somewhat damaged, but since a clear day followed immediately with a slight north wind the farmers of the district will save the entire crop. Alfalfa hay is commanding a price around $25 per ton, even at this writing, and later on it is expected a greater price will be secured for the crop. No hay was left over from last year's cutting, so that the new crop is coming in at a fancy price to the farmers of West Sacramento.

Miss Dixie Chiles expects to spend the week-end with her folks in Chiles Valley, Napa County. She is the latest addition to the office force of West Sacramento Company headquarters and is becoming acquainted with all the residents of the district.

Caesar Caffero has sold his interests in the Terrace Inn at Riverbank and expects to go north to British Columbia for a prolonged visit. The new owner is George Pritchard, who will look after the affairs of the inn with Jack Lewis.

George Beale is adding considerably to the furnishings and fixtures in the Beale grocery store at Washington. The latest improvement that has been installed is a showcase refrigerator which is not only an ornament to the institution but is a useful article for displaying material that must be kept in cold storage. Beale expects to make further improvements and is trying to do everything to hold the trade of the people at this side of the river.

A children's free clinic will be held in the auditorium of the Washington school on April 28. It will be for children expecting to enter the primary grades this year.

A party composed of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dupzyk, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Speicher and Mrs. Carrie Harms spent last Sunday in Auburn.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Eugene, who have been spending a short while in Marysville visiting with friends, returned to their Washington home.

Mrs. Martin Kornfield and family and W. R. Rector, father of the former, who have been spending the past ten days in Washington as the guests of Mrs. A. Shoemaker, returned to San Francisco.

Mrs. Francis Carpenter, who for the past six months has been visiting at the home of Mrs. Al Shoemaker, left Saturday for Beiber, where she will visit with her son.

POWER SERVICE EXTENDED TO HOLLAND DISTRICT

The installation of electric service to the northern part of the Holland Land Company's holdings was a rush job, just being completed at an expenditure of more than $14,000 by the Great Western Power Company. This is a district which had no electric service last year and there was immediate need for 300 horsepower for agricultural and pumping operations. The work, which is in reclamation district 999, was to be done within three weeks from April 4, when it was started, and consists of five and one-half miles of 4000-volt primary lines and installation of service for fifteen consumers.

WASHINGTON BOOSTERS CLUB HAS PERMANENT OFFICERS TO BOOST COMMUNITY AND PROPERTY VALUES

Regular meeting of the Washington Boosters Club was held last Tuesday evening in the town hall at which some important transactions took place.

A report was turned in by a committee of ladies headed by Chairman Mrs. A. M. Cameron, reporting that the West Sacramento Auto Camp had been inspected and was found to be in a perfectly sanitary condition and very well conducted by the owners.

Promise was made that the other auto camps in the town would be inspected during the present week and that a report would be turned in by hte officers at the next meeting.

Permanent officers of the club were selected so that any action taken by the club as a body might be legal and that it would bear weight with the residents of the community. The following officers were then elected and installed: President, Mrs. A. M. Cameron; Vice President, Mrs. P. O. Van Deren; Secretary, Mrs. H. Palm; Treasurer, Mrs. E. F. Curry; Executive Committee, J. Pereira, Ray Peek and O. P. Cook; Sergeant-at-Arms, Mrs. J. McNevin. These officers were installed by P. A. Fitzgerald.

It was duly moved and seconded that all material and funds left over by the Washington Improvement Club be taken over by the Washington Boosters Club and after considerable discussion the officers that had just been installed were authorized to make the request on the officers of the defunct improvement club.

The improvement club had purchased a piano during the time of its existence, but before going out of existence the piano was exchanged for a graphophone, which was found to be in the care and keeping of Mrs. E. A. Palm, who offered it to the club immediately.

Attention was drawn by Ray Peek to the great danger that exists on the highway in front of the public school building. Here several hundred children cross the roadway at the time school leaves out and at the noon recess. No attention whatever is paid to the speed limit on this stretch of road and parents are fearful that some foolish auto driver will forget himself and do damage in the killing or maiming of some of the school children unless action be taken immediately.

In order to accomplish this the secretary of the club was requested to write to the board of supervisors through the supervisor of this district, W. E. M. Beardslee, asking that the traffic officers of Yolo County be requested to give this matter attention, especially on one or two evenings of each week when school children are given leave for the day.

The club expects to get immediate action on this matter for there is imminent danger that some of the little tots leaving school may lose their lives in the mad rush of autoists after they cross the Southern Pacific bridge.

The membership committee of the club had very little to report at the meeting last Tuesday, only two being present, and only one having done any work in the matter of getting more members. The report turned in was far from encouraging.

On the question of objects and motives, J. Pereira made an extended talk as to what the club could do in improving conditions around Washington. He drew attention to the fact that during the winter the streets are in very poor condition, there being no sidewalks, no lawns and very poor drainage.

The fact that there is no sewerage system was found to be the cause of some cesspools overflowing and the attention of the state board of health was drawn to these conditions.

Extended remarks were made by Ray Peek on the fact that opiates and narcotics had been taken at the Chinese lodging house at Front and Harriett streets.

Peek claimed that this was the biggest detriment that any community could be afflicted with. He also drew attention to the fact that Chinese gambling was going on in the Chinese building near the M street bridge, and that an investigation was being made to clear these pest holes so that the younger generation would not be condemned with the odium of having been raised in a community that countenanced Chinese and their peculiar methods of living.

J. Pereira drew attention to the fact that the canned heat victims stretched out at full length on the levee in the sun were ever so much a worse condition than the Chinese, who might be gambling or who might not be gambling in the house near the M street bridge.

These questions will be up for consideration at the next meeting of the Boosters Club.

A proposal was made to hold a "clean-up day" in the near future. Arrangements will be made during the coming week for this event when all the people will be expected to do what they possibly can in the way of making conditions as sanitary as possible and turning out a lot of old rubbish that is neither ornamental or useful to the citizens of the community.

A by-laws committee was appointed by the chairman to get up a set of by-laws that could be submitted at the next meeting of the club. The committee consists of Mrs. H. Palm, Mrs. J. McNevin and Mrs. E. F. Curry.

Mrs. J. McNevin promised that at the meeting next Tuesday evening she would see to it that refreshments would be procured for all those who saw fit to attend the meeting.

NARCOTICS DISCOVERED IN LODGING HOUSE IN AMOUNT OF $2,000 SEIZED BY AGENTS AND FINES ARE LEVIED ON THE PEDDLERS

Last Monday evening Ah Sing, a Chinese, was arrested in the lodging house at Front and Harriet streets by State Narcotic Agent Roy Jones, Constable Buckingham and some other federal officers.

In his possession was found a small quantity of opium, that kind which is usually used in smoking, and in the house was found a supply of cocaine in the value of about $2,000.

In the use of these narcotics there were found also several pipes and other paraphernalia used in the consumption and use of narcotics.

Sing was taken before Judge Barry's court last Tuesday afternoon and was fined $200 after he pleaded guilty. The fine was paid immediately and Sing was permitted to go his way after a severe lecture delivered to him by Judge Barry. Sing promised never again to visit the premises and he was cautioned by Constable Buckingham not to be seen around there again.

Yee Him, Tim Duck, Lee Hing found on the premises at the time of the raid, pleaded guilty before Judge Barry on the same day to visiting a place where narcotics were being used. For this offense they were each fined $20 which they paid immediately. They too were cautioned by Judge Barry that they must not visit any place where narcotics were being used and they promised to sin no more.

This lodging house has been used by Chinese for some considerable time. Suspicion was directed against the place for the use of narcotics some time ago but the difficulty of landing purveyors prevented any arrests being made for some time past. By closely watching the premises Constable Buckingham at last succeeded in landing the guilty party with the result that when the raid was made the work was completed in a thorough manner.

DITCHES ARE BEING CLEANED IN WEST SACRAMENTO DISTRICT

Ditch diggers and manual labor have been mostly responsible during the past week for the cleaning out of several of the reclamation and irrigation ditches of West Sacramento district.

Available funds will permit a good deal of this cleaning but it may be possible those funds may not be sufficient to cover the expense of cleaning out all the ditches of the district.

Those in least need of cleaning may be held over until next fall or next spring.

All ditches of the district are now filled to capacity with water and as a matter of fact some are over flowing but not to the detriment of any of the land owners of the district.

Owing to the shortage of the rainfall during the winter season the land holders are glad to get a little over supply rather than an under supply at this time of the year.

ELKHORN DISCUSSES BOBBED HAIR, AND WOMEN WIN

Woodland, April 22.—Even a quotation from the Bible failed to win for the side opposing bobbed hair in a debate on that all-important topic at a meeting of the Elkhorn farm center last evening. The judges decided that the arguments in favor of clipped locks were the strongest.

E. T. Smith, opposing shortened tresses, quoted from the first book of the Corinthians in the New Testament, 11th chapter, 14th and 15th verses:

"Doth not even nature itself teach you that, if a man have long hair it is a shame unto him?

"But if a woman have long hair, it is a glory to her; for her hair is given her for a covering."

Smith and Harry Ogden were on the side opposing bobbed hair, while George Hicks and Eunice Marlin sought to show that the latest tonsorial style was the best.

Fred Shaffer, one of the judges, asked for protection, claiming that women in the audience were attempting to intimidate the judges to vote for the abbreviated coiffure.

The attendance at the meeting exceeded 150, the largest in the history of the organization.

At the conclusion of the debate, Mrs. K. L. Lovdal, chairman of the meeting, said:

"Come on, girls. Let's all do it now."

RAID ON JACKASS JOINT RESULTS IN FIND OF FIVE GALLONS

Just north of the M street bridge in a little shack lately built there on the river slope of the levee, a raid was made last Thursday by Constable Buckingham and a quantity of jackass in the amount of five gallons taken.

Robert Miley was placed under arrest for being in possession of intoxicants, but on appearing before Judge Barry he pleaded not guilty and was placed under a cash bond of $300.

A young woman, who claimed to be the owner of the shack, made claim that Miley rented the place from her and that she objected to his dispensing intoxicants.

On this charge Constable Buckingham made the raid and discovered the noxious liquor.

Miley is out on cash bond to be tried this forenoon before Judge Barry's court, but since no sale can be charged against him it is possible that he may be fined for possession only and permitted to go.

A great deal worse condition prevails under the M street bridge, and south of the bridge in the jungles north of the rice mills.

It is in this locality that the canned heat victims make their headquarters. The poor wretches, suffering with delirium, seek relief in the poisonous liquor only to relapse into unconsciousness when an overdose is sometimes taken.

This condition is deplorable and mostly follows in the wake of prohibition.

MERKLEY CONTEST OVER

Woodland, April 18.—The superior court proceedings wherein Mrs. Ida J. Merkley, widow of the late Charles H. Merkley, is attempting to oust the administrator of her husband's estate, A. A. Merkley, was continued yesterday by Judge Jones, sitting for Judge W. A. Anderson, over to April 29, at which time further testimony will be taken.
